He died at age 74 in 1957 and following his death, Mrs. Archer returned to Boone to make her home until her death.

One of Boone's early Little League diamonds, located at 10th and Tama

There were several of Archer's Boone teammates in the Iowa State League that joined him as major league players.

In 1905, Benny Meyers, Boone's first baseman, was sold to Brooklyn of the National League, a team he remained with for five seasons. Boone third baseman Ival Howard eventually played with the Cleveland Indians for three seasons.

Boone County is also represented by James Ronald Grant who was born in Coalville on August 4, 1894, but later resided in Madrid and is buried at Mt. Hope Cemetery in Madrid. Grant, a pitcher, made it to the major leagues with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Several Boone residents have also been minor league players.

George (Doc) Witercraft, Walter (Baldy) Kiddie, Spot Grant, Don Reed, Bob Reedholm and Gary Grosnickle all signed contracts to play minor league baseball.
